

About me:

My name is Jacob Fetterman, and I love to program. I like big projects that challenge me to learn new skills.

Mostly because I find it fun to create new things. I believe that nothing is more fun than creating a unique solution, while I'm still vastly inexperienced in the world of programming I find great joy in discovering new things.